How to Attract FROGS & TOADS To Your Garden
First, gather supplies:
- Old flower pots
- Primer, paint, and brushes
- Waterproof glue

Step 1: Thoroughly wash and dry the pots.

Step 2: Paint the outsides of the pots dark green. Once dry, paint the inside of the pots. Paint the insides of the smaller pots light green and the bottom white. When dry, add black paint to the inside bottom for the eyes. Let dry.
Step 3: Add generous amount of strong waterproof glue on the large pot. Stick the small pots to the large one, one at a time (a parent may be needed). Tip: Hold the pot in place with rubber bands and let the first one dry completely before adding the second pot.

Step 4: Paint black nostrils on the rim of the large pot. The paint and glue should cure 72 hours before placing the house outside.

Step 5: Partially bury the house as shown. You can add some bling to your new Toad Abode, with a pebble sidewalk, a painted saucer for a pond or a sign that says “Welcome!” Then share a photo of your house on The Nature Foundation at Wintergreen Facebook page, or send your comments to our Peace Out(side) page on our website www.twnf.org.
