Applications are now being accepted for the 2022 training course offered by the Central Blue Ridge chapter for new Virginia Master Naturalist (VMN) volunteers. Classes and field trips will cover subjects such as ecology, insects, birds, trees, streams, citizen science, conservation, climate change, and geology. If you like nature study, hiking, birding, fishing, forestry, and educating others, this program is for you!

Volunteers in the program engage in a wide variety of local, state, and national projects that promote wise management of natural resources. Numerous opportunities for on-going education are provided to members throughout the year, most of which are free.

Indoor classes will be held on Sunday afternoons at the Nelson Center on U.S. 29 in Lovington, beginning January 30. Last date of classes and field trips is April 10.

Registration is required. Fill Out Application Here Please complete application form by January 20.

Cost of the training is $75/person (family discounts available). Complete information will be sent to you after your application has been accepted.

If you have questions, leave a message with the Virginia Extension Office in Lovington, phone 434-263-7180 or email lmacrae@vt.edu and someone will get back to you.

Come learn about nature and participate with other Master Naturalists to promote conservation!

(Several of our chapter members live in Wintergreen, and we encourage everyone to become involved with The Nature Foundation of Wintergreen, one of our local partners.)
